

Carol Gebhardt

Northwest Regional Professional Development Program

“It’s unheard of for a math teacher not to show the art of solving problems on the chalkboard. An artist paints with his class; a science teacher illustrates the art of investigation and documentation, and a coach shows how she spreads her fingers to control a basketball. Good teaching means demonstrating the decisions and skills required to participate in the field of study or endeavor being taught. I invite you to take this journey with regard to writing.”
